TRADE EXPERT SAYS WORLD SOON WILL BE BUYING AGAIN

President Of British Board Reviews Conditions

TARIFFS HINDER

War Boom Stocks Now Almost Liquidated, He Says

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 11.—The President of the Board of Trade, Mr. Stanley Baldwin, in introducing the Board of Trade estimates in the House of Commons today, gave a review of world trade. Mr. Baldwin said that there was nothing in the condition of the British Dominions, the United States, South America, Holland, Scandinavia or Spain to prevent them from again buying largely. He regarded with apprehension the increases in tariffs, especially in France, Italy, Spain and the United States, but he felt confident that we would hold our own in the Dominions owing to their generous preference. A further disquieting feature was the attempted discrimination in certain maritime countries against British shipping. He hoped that the Motherland and the Dominions would confer on that matter before it was too late.

If the restoration of Europe was delayed, Mr. Baldwin continued, we must intensively develop inter-Imperial trade and push into the Eastern and South American markets. British industries had mostly liquidated the stocks which they had accumulated in the short post-war boom, but a reduction in taxation was essential to the resumption of business.

COAL TRADE NORMAL

The coal trade alone had reached the economic level, the speaker went on. It was the only trade where exports were something like the pre-war average, but, unfortunately, there was no great demand for industrial coal, which was not likely to revive till trade generally began to improve.

The iron and steel trade had had the most difficult time, and was not likely to reach a paying position for some time, as the world was convinced that bottom prices had not yet been reached.

The wool trade was comparatively cheerful, notably yarns and piecegoods, but the growth of tariffs abroad was injurious.

The other side of the picture, however, showed that our productive power was greater than ever, while London remained the world's financial center. Mr. Baldwin quoted the percentages of exports since 1913, showing that we were slowly climbing out of the appalling pit into which we fell on the collapse of the post-war boom and giving real hope that we were on the eve of a better time. The speaker forecasted that trade would continue its slow and gradual improvement, but all classes must cooperate in production.

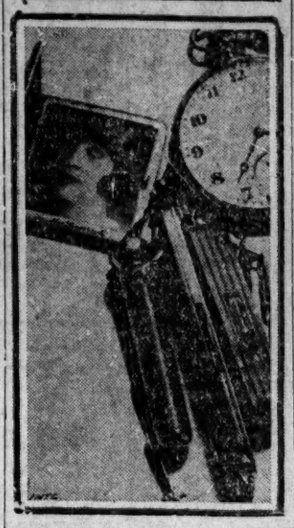
Lancashire was viewing with alarm the increase in duties in India, Mr. Baldwin said. He hoped that the labors of the Indian Fiscal Commission, which was studying the whole question, would bring some comfort to British manufacturers.

SIGNS OF BETTERMENT

Summing up the world's markets, the President of the Board of Trade said that they saw little sign of rapidly increasing trade with the Dominions. They saw in India difficulties placed in the way by tariff, by the fall of the rupee and by unliquidated stocks. They saw in Japan financial troubles and in China political troubles, but saw in South America signs of improvement and also similar signs in the United States.

He added that the cotton trade had to contend with many difficulties which had arisen largely owing to the fact that their great trade with the East and the Indian trade were not only hampered by the Indian tariff but by a large amount of bills in India which were awaiting liquidation. The industry of Lancashire had faced with great courage and commonsense the cheapening of production necessary to enable it to re-enter various markets. Mr. Baldwin expressed the opinion that Lancashire had set an example to the country in settling trade disputes without involving the rest of the country.

Mabel's Locket



MABEL Normand, film star, gave a "love locket" to William L. Taylor, slain director, Los Angeles police have discovered. Under a photograph of Miss Normand, found in the locket, was the engraved inscription, "To my dearest." Mabel denies, however, that she was engaged to Taylor.

THRONGS ATTEND HEALTH EXHIBIT AT THE Y.M.C.A.

Two Lectures Scheduled For Today As Campaign Closes

With large crowds in attendance and many examinations given, the annual health exhibit and campaign of the Y.M.C.A., which closes today, has proved a remarkable success.

Twelve thousand three hundred and twenty persons attended the exhibit at the Y.M.C.A. yesterday while six hundred have had examinations of eyes or teeth. Lectures in the afternoon and evening were attended by audiences of a thousand in each instance.

The program for the final day of the exhibit, today, includes a lecture on "Hygiene and Morals" at 5 p.m. by Mr. Kung Hsiang-hsi, adviser to the Governor of Shansi, and one on "Personal Hygiene" at 8 p.m. by Dr. S. M. Woo, of the National Health Association. Both addresses will be in Chinese.

Dail Committee Will Try Again To Bring Peace

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 11.—The Dail Eireann Peace Committee has agreed to resume negotiations. The House accordingly adjourned till May 17. The truce continues.

London, May 12.—Reports from two sections of the Dail Eireann Peace Committee show that the recent negotiations failed owing to the refusal of the Republicans to accept as a basis for discussion, a document admitting that the majority of the people were in favor of the Treaty. Both sides were apparently prepared to agree not to contest elections; but the anti-Treaty party's proposals included the re-election of the present Dail without this involving the settlement of the Treaty issue. The pro-Treaty section proposed the formation of a coalition government after the elections.

Sir Philip Gibbs Predicts Genoa Conference Fails

Sir Philip Gibbs, the extremely well informed British war correspondent and writer on political subjects has written an unusually keen and intelligent analysis of the Genoa Conference.

Lloyd George, shorn of his locks like Samson of old . . . the Soviet hate. . . Poincare. . . Gibbs gives you a clear, concise word picture of just what the Genoa Conference is up against. And can America discover Europe by going to Genoa as Genoa's son discovered America?

POWERS AIM AT DEFEAT OF RUSS IDEALS, SAY SOVIETS

Reply To Allied Memorandum Unsatisfactory

DEFENDS STAND

Will Not Recognise Private Property Or Pay Debts

(Reuter's Service)

Genoa, May 11.—From the preliminary examination, the Russian reply generally appears unsatisfactory, but from the British and Italian standpoint it is regarded as "one we can get on with."

The other delegations apparently consider that the answer renders further negotiations difficult. The Russian desire for peace, however, has produced a good impression generally.

Genoa, May 11.—The burden of the Russian reply is a long defense of Russia's attitude in repudiating public debts and declining to restore private property and also insistence on reciprocity in the matter of concessions. Nevertheless, the communication concludes by accepting liability for public debts conditionally on the losses caused by foreign intervention and blockade being recognised. Moreover, foreign owners of property now nationalised are entitled to enjoy preferential rights where the property was granted as a concession. Objections are raised to the proposed mixed arbitral tribunal as certain to be not impartial. The appointment of a mixed commission of experts is suggested to consider a solution of the financial difficulties between the Powers and Russia.

The reply complains that Russia's effort to obtain consideration of the most important problem of credits and loans is ignored in the Allied memorandum, which, however, seeks to impose on Russia the condition at the outset that she must accept her liabilities. It contends that Russia's good faith with regard to the settlement of debts has been demonstrated by her desire not to assume engagements which cannot be carried out.

The reply further complains that Russia has been singled out for ostracism although other States at Genoa have repudiated their debts and confiscated private property. The attitude of the Powers towards Russia is attributed to a desire to defeat Soviet ideals. It stresses the impossibility of permanently isolating Russia and points out the uselessness of credits if the Government is not assured of the necessary means to assist production.

The reply declines to accept any prohibition with regard to propaganda unless such propaganda is illegal. It expresses willingness to discuss Russo-Rumanian relations at an opportune moment. Russia, as an unconquered State, objects to the tone adopted towards her at Genoa. The reply concludes on an optimistic note with regard to the surmounting of differences and reiterates Russia's conciliatory intentions.

London, May 12.—The real substance of the Russian reply is contained in the concluding paragraphs, in which Russia wants to know clearly what credits she is likely to obtain before undertaking the obligations suggested by the Powers.

The only part of the reply that Mr. Lloyd George considers satisfactory is the expression of Russia's desire for peace and her readiness to enter the Non-Aggression Pact.

The Russians reject as impossible the principle of the restoration of foreign-owned private property, on which the Belgians and French are insisting. War debts are also specifically excluded from the conditional offer to accept liability for public debts.

Mr. Lloyd George, M. Barthou and Signor Schanzer conferred on the reply last evening. The British Empire delegation also met to decide their line of action.

It is suggested in the British press that the reply may mean the adjournment of the conference.

Sir Robert Horne's announcement to Parliament that no government loan to Russia is contemplated is generally approved.

CHINA TRADE ACT PASSES HOUSE, GOES TO SENATE

Measure Is Essentially Same As Conference Committee Approved

OUTLINE GIVEN

Summary Of Provisions Of New Law States Its Purposes

Cabled announcement was received yesterday by the American Chamber of Commerce that the China Trade Act has passed the House of Representatives at Washington and it is believed by Senator A. B. Cummings of Iowa, who has been an active supporter of the measure, that it will be pushed through the Senate some time next week.

The bill as passed by the House is in all essentials the same as approved by the House and Senate conference committee, providing in particular tax exemption for American companies engaged in business in China.

HOW ACT OPERATES

The China Trade Act as it was finally approved by the joint Committee of the Senate and House of Representatives on April 15 contains the following chief provisions:

1—Federal incorporation under a single set of known regulations. This will eliminate the confusion resulting from the attempt to apply in China under extra-territorial jurisdiction the conflicting corporate regulations of our 48 different states and the territories and dependencies, none of which were ever intended for foreign trade purposes.

2—It provides the machinery for co-operation of Chinese and American capital in business and development enterprises with the best possible protection for the interests of both parties that it is possible to obtain under our form of government.

3—It attempts to provide equality of taxation for the American firm in China in its competition with firms of other nationalities which have been granted similar exemptions by their home governments. The taxation exemption is for companies only upon that part of their business conducted in China including Manchuria, Thibet, Mongolia, the Crown Colony of Hongkong and the province of Macao. The exemptions apply to American and Chinese stockholders resident in China.

4—The head office of a China Trade Act corporation must be in China but branch offices may be established at such places as is deemed advisable. Corporations formed under this act must carry the phrase, "Fed. Inc. U. S. A." after their titles.

5—The act carries strict provisions covering the issuance of stock and the actual money or equivalent represented. Penalties are provided for violations.

6—The administration of the act will be under the Department of Commerce through an officer known as China Trade Act Registrar the residence of whom will be in China. Appeal from the decisions of the Registrar must be to the Secretary of Commerce in Washington who may affirm, modify or set aside.

7.—Legal actions arising under this act may be heard in the U. S. Court for China, the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia or any federal district court of the United States.

8—China Trade Act corporations may be formed by five or more individuals, a majority of whom are American citizens. The president, treasurer or secretary or corresponding officers must also be American citizens.

9—Regulations for putting the China Trade Act into effect have already been drafted so there should be no untoward delay after the act has received the President's signature.

10—One of the chief benefits to be derived from the Act is that it provides for local control of American business with responsibility upon those American business men in the field who are responsible for the pioneering work. Although Congress reserves the right to alter, amend or repeal the act it probably will remain in force until extra-territoriality is abolished at which time all foreign business will automatically come under the control of the Chinese Govern-

Rapid Rehabilitation Urged By Speakers At University Club Tiffin

Dr. Wellington Koo Pins Faith On Western Education In China While Mr. Isaac Marcosson Pleads For Moratorium On Militarism

The necessity for early reconstruction in China was emphasised in two eloquent addresses delivered by Dr. V. K. Wellington Koo, Chinese Minister to the Court of St. James, and Mr. Isaac Marcosson, Saturday Evening Post writer, before the American University Club at its tiffin yesterday at the Carlton Cafe. Both speakers declared that the rehabilitation of this country must take place at once in order that China may assume her rightful position with the world powers in the dawn of a new era of civilisation.

Dr. Koo, in a glowing tribute paid to American educational efforts in China asserted that intellectual understanding must form the basis of international co-operation and that the Chinese students who received their education in Western colleges are destined to play an important role in the reconstruction of the nation.

Mr. Marcosson, in discussing the Chinese situation, advocated the declaration of a moratorium on militarism by the people of China. Until then the friendly support and financial aid from foreign powers would not come.

"It is most unfortunate that China should be plunged into the vortex of a civil war in the wake of the Washington Conference," he said.

Mr. Marcosson sounded a warning against dangerous optimism that the Washington Conference has solved all problems, that all the work is done. The principles and high ideals that governed that Conference must be translated into actualities. The Conference was merely a beginning.

"The next twelve months in the Orient will be as important and delicate as the 12 months which preceded the gathering at Washington," he said. The whole sense of broad vision and statesmanship which governed the conference must now be translated into actualities and until this is done there can be no tumult of joy and no cheers.

"I am hoping that out of the Orient will come a new gospel of peaceful rivalry as opposed to forceful penetration, as out of the Orient came the mysticism which was our parent civilisation. Then the work at Washington will not have been in vain and then will come a new diplomacy of goodwill and correct understanding which will be the hope of the world.

"The economic structure of the universe is in absolute disintegration. This is the result of a very simple thing which forms the reason for the calling of the Washington Conference. It was the Treaty arrived at the Paris Conference, the most ridiculous imiction ever imposed on the self-respect and intelligence of the world and that is the treaty of Versailles.

"The borders of the countries in Europe today are borders of hate. The frontiers were not determined on economic gounds. They were framed on racial and sentimental grounds."

"The one man with vision and intelligence, who stands in the breach against all the inroads of selfish nationalism, which is just another name for self importance, is Mr. Lloyd George. I regard Mr. Lloyd George today as one of the greatest of men probably in the whole world. Since I came here a great many persons have asked me to tell them something about this remarkable man who, despite his part in framing the Paris treaty, is making amends for the great economic mistake which was made in Paris.

"In all these years Mr. Lloyd George is the only premier who is still carrying on and this extraordinary little man has the infinite, overwhelming responsibility heaped on his shoulders like Atlas carried the world, the Allied cause and the Allied hopes, and the very safety of our civilisation itself.

"How is it that this wonderful little man can carry such an immense burden? It is very simple. In the first place he is intensely human, in the second place he realises his frailties and it takes a very great man to admit what his weaknesses are, and in the third place I think he is the world's greatest orator. I have heard all the great orators of my time and yet I know no one man who approaches his oratory in the witchery of words. His eloquence is so exquisite, his imagery is so flawless, his speech is so limpid and liquid that many times when I have listened to him I have closed my eyes and fancied myself in a great vaulted cathedral with his voice like the music of some mighty organ."

Mr. Marcosson also said Mr. Lloyd George had the faculty of always landing on his feet.

"I think that if he fell out of an airplane 10,000 feet high, he would not injure himself and would land safely, while he would discover something to his constructive advantage on the trip down.

"In these God-given gifts, lie the reason why Mr. Lloyd George carries on, and I say frankly that the greatest service Lloyd George has done, and that on which rests the hope and faith of the Allied cause is that he is now standing in the breach like the hero of mythology who stood on the bridge and kept off the hordes of advancing marauders. And the greatest job of his life is that which he has undertaken at Genoa, where is attempting to take the element of politics out of economics."

Speaking of the Washington Conference, which he termed "a historic milepost on the road of a shell-shocked world," he said that the conference told Japan

CHANG'S TROOPS, 50,000 STRONG, DIG IN; CHIHLI MEN PREPARE TO ATTACK

Mukden Reinforcements Reach Lwanchow, 80 Miles Northeast Of Tientsin; Wu's Forces, Equally Strong, Detrain At Tangshan

MORE FIGHTING BELIEVED INEVITABLE

Pursuers Only Five Miles From Fengtien Outposts; Apprehension Felt For Safety Of Foreigners In Tangshan Mining District

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, May 12.—Fengtien troops with reinforcements from Mukden are concentrating over 50,000 strong round Changli and Lwanchow and are entrenching. About an equal number of Chihli forces have detrained and are deploying near Tangshan, five miles from the Fengtien advance posts. Unless the retreat is resumed fighting is inevitable very shortly.

There is some apprehension for the safety of foreigners not only from the troops but also and more especially from the miners, whom it has been impossible to supply with adequate food and pay during the last month, owing to the movements of troops.

BY JOSEF W. HALL
Staff Correspondent the China Press

Paotingfu, May 12.—In reply to a letter from General Ting Chin, formerly director of the Aeronautical Department, who asked concerning the prospects of reunification of the North and South, General Wu Pei-fu stated that the national union would depend on the self-abnegation of President Hsu, whose self-sacrifice of his official position will, he said, bring about the desired reunion.

Considerable difficulty is being experienced in General Wu's attempt to put through progressive measures on account of the obstructionist tactics of Peking officialdom.

General Chang Shao-tseng, ardent advocate for the Lushan Conference on National Affairs following the Anfu defeat in 1920, arrived here last night and held an interview with General Wu Pei-fu.

General Feng Yu-hsiang, the Christian Tuchun of Shensi, has entered Kaifeng with his victorious army and has taken over the tuchunate of Honan.

Peking, May 12.—According to the latest official reports General Chang Tso-lin has brought within the Great Wall 110,000 troops, while General Wu Pei-fu's troops numbered 73,000, not counting 35,000 which remained with General Feng Yu-hsiang at Chengchow. By noon today 70,000 Fengtien soldiers had surrendered and were disarmed. It is estimated that 8,000 Fengtien forces have reached Lwanchow from the south.

According to foreign information, General Chang Tso-lin has 30,000 troops at Lwanchow. He is also alleged to have brought reinforcements, but the latter report appears excessive.

General Feng Yu-hsiang reports that he is now engaged in rounding up General Chao Chieh's defeated troops along the Lunghai railway and that he will shortly resume operations.

A mandate issued last night appoints General Pao Teh-chuan Associate Director of Military Affairs in Honan and General Chang Teh-sheng Military Commissioner at Kueiteh.

DECISION STILL IS AWAITED IN LOBINGIER CASE

Cable From Washington Says Case Now Has Been Sent To President Harding

No disclosures have yet been made at Washington indicating what action has been taken in connection with the charges made against Judge C. S. Lobingier by Mr. W. S. Fleming, but according to a message received here yesterday by The Weekly Review of the Far East the case has been referred to President Harding.

Some weeks ago when it was learned that Judge Lobingier had left the capital and had started on his way back to China it was accepted that the inquiry in the case had been concluded and a verdict was expected daily. Then came the report that Judge Lobingier had turned back just as he was about to sail for Shanghai from Seattle and was returning to Washington to confer with officials there. Since that time no definite reports concerning the case have been received and it is not known here when Judge Lobingier will return.

Sun will also be guests.

Dr. Yen Urged As New Cabinet Head

(Reuter Pacific Service)

Peking, May 12.—It is reported that a conference is being held at Paoting today regarding the premiership, which explains General Wu Pei-fu's visit. It is understood that General Tsao Kun wants Mr. Chin Yung-pang, while the President is adhering to the nomination of General Wang Shih-chen, and a growing section of the public favors Dr. W. W. Yen, thinking that Dr. Yen is best able to deal with the south and central China regarding reunification, for which it is generally recognised that an unique opportunity exists, particularly if the rumors of a rapprochement between General Wu Pei-fu and General Chen Chiung-ming may be believed.

Various organisations are telegraphing to Peking urging the appointment of Dr. Yen as Premier.

Notes On The Situation

News received in Legation quarters at Peking indicates that a declaration of independence by the Manchurian provinces will be proclaimed soon by Chang Tso-lin.

The report that Kaifeng has been seized by Feng Yu-hsiang has been denied. The Honan provincial capital is still in the hands of Chao Ti, who is offering a strenuous resistance. General Wu Pei-fu has despatched part of his crack Third Division as well as that of Feng Yu-hsiang's Eleventh Division to attack the city.

A military conference is being held in Paotingfu presided over by General Wu Pei-fu, formulating plans for the march against Lwanchow, where Chang Tso-lin's troops have made a stand.

Three sections of the Peking Mukden Railway between Peitang and Kaiping have been torn up.

Five provinces, Kiangsu, Hupeh, Shensi, Chihli and Shantung have endorsed the proposal to appoint General Wang Shi-chen as the new Premier.

A telegram from Sun Li-chen, Chang Tso-lin's aide, to the Peking Government, stated that peace can be attained if Chang is allowed to remain in his office. Otherwise, he is prepared to declare independence.

Garrison duty is being performed by the 23rd Division under General Wang Chen-ping at Tientsin, Chunghangchen, Hsinho, Liangwangchwan and Yangliutsin.

A member of the French legation who has just returned to Lwanchow states that about 43,000 Fengtien soldiers are still stationed in that city.

General Wang Shih-chen has consented to organise a new Cabinet. But he desires to consult Tsao Kun and Wu Pei-fu before assuming his post. President Hsu has invited Tsao and Wu to visit Peking, according to the Dah Tong News Bureau.

While the clamor for the abolition of the Tuchunate and disbanding of troops is reaching a high pitch, Tsao Kun is hesitating to give up his sphere in Chihli to Wu entirely. President Hsu is at a loss to know how to reward the accomplishment of Wu, he told his subordinates.

A Presidential mandate will soon be promulgated appointing General Tsao Chen-hsun, Tartar General of Chahar.

Chinese Press Telegrams On The Situation

Referring to the problem of national reconstruction, General Wu Pei-fu had this to say:

"If the old parliament is revived, it will endanger the position of President Hsu Shih-chang. If a citizens' convention is to be called, the scheme, being of a very wide scope, will meet with serious obstacles. If the third parliament is to be recognised, its constituents do not represent all the provinces in China. I should try to get into touch with such intelligent men as Chen Chiung-ming, Tang Chi-yao, Liu Hsiang, Chao Heng-ti, Wu Ting-fang and Tang Shao-yi. I propose to follow the wishes of the majority of these leaders."

It is estimated by the Diplomatic Corps that the recent conflict had involved losses amounting to $200,000,000. The opinion is earnestly expressed that China's reconstruction will be impossible without the reduction of troops.

Chang Tso-lin has left 200,000,000 copper cents at the capital. These have been seized by the Peking gendarmes and forwarded to Tsao Kun at Paoting for payment to the troops.

The Chihli troops have commandeered from the Fengtien troops $270,000 in silver and banknotes in addition to 30,000 bags of flour.

It is reported that Chang Hsueh-liang, son of Chang Tso-lin, died in the hospital at Tangshan as the result of the serious wounds he had sustained during the recent conflict. A report says that Chang Tso-lin is as present taking shelter on a Japanese warship in a state of delirium.

Wu Pei-fu has proposed that all the Fengtien troops sent to this side of the Wall be disbanded and that the disbandment of the 26th division of the Chihli troops be effected at the same time. The Diplomatic Corps is agreeable to the release of the Customs surplus for the purpose of disbanding the troops.

The war prizes which fell into the hands of the Chihli troops at Tientsin consist of 2 field guns, 8 machine guns, 2,900 rifles and 2,000 horses.

Presidential mandates have been issued appointing Wu Tsun-sheng, Tuchun of Fengtien; Feng Lin-ko, Tuchun of Heilungkiang; Yuen Ching-kai, Civil Governor of Fengtien; and Sze Chee-chang, Civil Governor of Heilungking. Mandates have also been issued for the dismissal of Chao Ti as Tuchun of Honan and his succession by Feng Yu-hsiang. Liu Chen-hua has been appointed Tuchun of Shensi. The post of High Commissioner for Mongolia and the Frontier has been abolished.

It is reported that Tsao Jui will return to Tientsin on the 14th inst. to resume his functions as Civil Governor of Chihli. The Tientsin people are strongly opposed to his reinstatement.

The report that Tuchun Lu Yung-hsiang of Chekiang will resign from his present post is officially denied.

There is a rumor that the Cabinet has decided to open as international trade centers eight places along the Shantung Railway, namely, Kaomi, Chingchow, Weihsien, Fangtze, Tzechuen, Poshan, Chowtsun and Changtien. The Shantung people are opposed to such a decision on the ground that only Weihsien and Chowtsun are to be converted into foreign trade centers according to the terms of the Sino-German treaty and on the ground that the past history of Japanese doings in Shantung is an indication that the throwing open of so many places at one time to foreign trade will be a fruitful source of international complications.

The fall of Kaifeng is imminent. Wu Pei-fu has named the following conditions for the settlement of the Honan situation, namely (1) Chao Chieh and Pao Teh-chuan are to be relieved of their positions as division commanders and are to be dealt with by Chao Ti; (2) the two divisions under the command of these two commanders are to be removed from their original places of defence; (3) these positions of defence will be occupied by the troops of Feng Yu-hsiang and all Honan troops stationed south of the Yellow River are to be disarmed.

A circular telegram has been published by the Tuchun of Honan in which he quotes a petition that has been addressed to him by 36 public bodies in Honan. The petition points out that since the 9th year of the Min Kuo (1920), Honan, after being removed of the disasters caused by the notorious bandit "White Wolf" and his followers, has been undergoing a process of rehabilitation through the good offices of Tuchun Chao Ti. The petitioners charge both Wu Pei-fu and Feng Yu-hsiang for occupying strategic positions at Honan and for extorting money from the various districts in the province by seizing the land tax revenue in sums ranging from $100,000 to $200,000 with ultimatums threatening capital punishment. The petitioners declared that in view of the famine scourges which Honan had suffered, it was in keeping with the best interests of the province that Chao Ti should have kept out of the recent conflict by assuming a neutral attitude.

The Kwangtung and Kiangsi troops opened fire upon each other at 10 a.m. on Sunday. Li Lieh-chun is in command of the troops at the front.

Trains loaded with Kwangtung troops on the Canton-Hankow Railway have been despatched in rapid succession to Shaokuan.

Tang Ting-kuang again has taken up the portfolio of the Minister of Navy in the Southern Cabinet.

Orders have been issued by Dr. Sun Yat-sen for offensive operations on all fronts to take effect Wednesday.

Altogether eight divisions are mobilised at Nanhsiung.

MORPHIA COMES TO CHINA FROM WEST, IS CHARGE

London Man Says Drug Traffic Shows Big Growth

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 12.—Correspondence in The Times on the drug traffic includes a letter from Mr. H. R. Pakenham, who lived twenty-five years in the Far East, in which he alleges that "a nefarious traffic in opium and morphia is being carried on by the British Indian Government," and says that commercial exploitation in a most sinister form is being seen in China in connection with the appalling growth of the morphia traffic, which has increased from five and a half tons in 1911 to twenty-eight tons in 1920, every ton representing 32,000,000 doses.

A very large part of this, Mr. Pakenham adds, is opium which comes from India to Britain, where it is converted into morphia and shipped to America. There it is transshipped to Japan and thence smuggled into China.

The whole crux of the position, the writer asserts, is the over-production of opium in India. If that were arrested, other sources of production could be dealt with with comparative ease. Mr. Pakenham says that about 13,000 pounds of opium a month are sent to Hongkong from India when 36 pounds a year would be ample for medical requirements. The balance goes in the demoralisation of the Colony or is smuggled to the mainland of China.

Mr. C. M. Sin, honorary treasurer of the London Chinese Students' Union, in a letter, supports Sir William Collins in urging immediate pressure by the League of Nations for the effective and immediate execution of the Opium Convention.

Peking Officials Must Ban Guards

(Reuter Pacific Service)

Peking, May 12.—The Peking Gendarmerie have ordered the abolition of the so-called guards which escort various officials and their families. Their arms will be collected by the police and offenders will henceforth be arrested and tried.

Only high police and military officials will henceforward be allowed to use guards, consisting of regulars.

STRIKE LEADER HELD

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hongkong, May 12.—Chang Ping-sang, the former President of the Seamen's Union, who was sentenced to twelve years imprisonment at Canton for the murder of his wife, and was subsequently liberated by Dr. Sun Yat-sen, arrived in Hongkong from Canton this morning. He was immediately arrested and is being held in custody by the police.

STRIKE CONFERENCE

what she could do and what she could not do.

The second greatest thing was that the conference showed to the peoples of the world that national expansion can no longer be achieved through the agency of military force, that nightmare of the world, made in Germany, as it were. Economic imperialism, together with political imperialism have gone into the scrapheaps with many of the big guns of the war.

"What China needs more than anything else is to declare a moratorium on militarism," declared the speaker, the statement being received with cheers. "It is the greatest function that this nation could accomplish and I declare that with the moratorium"—he turned to Dr. Koo—"you will have the comfort, the friendship and the financial support that this country needs."

Dr. Koo, after complimenting Mr. Marcosson for his interesting and instructive address, referred to the great influence that American education has over China. He gave some interesting figures in connection with the Chinese delegation in this respect. Besides the three principal delegates, who are all American college graduates, he said five of the seven advisors held degrees from American universities. Of the 100-odd members of the delegation, almost half were American educated.

There are at present over 2,000 Chinese students in American universities who are in personal contact with the best elements of the United States, he said. This intellectual understanding between students of China and America is giving China a source of constant satisfaction, because, already, the returned students are exerting their influence in business, medicine, religion, politics and diplomacy.

It was this intellectual understanding between Chinese and Americans that made co-operation between the two countries at the recent Washington Conference so easy. In this connection Dr. Koo also expressed his gratification over Anglo-American-Chinese co-operation at the parley.

"No other delegations succeeded in co-operating with one another to such advantage as did those from China, the United States and Great Britain," he said. "Without such co-operation, China could not have attained the success which we did at the conference."

"Mr. Marcosson has expressed a desire for rapid rehabilitation of China," continued Dr. Koo, "but I can assure him that it is the general desire of our nation that China should at once set her house in order. While we all regret the political disturbance and turmoil in North China, we see there is a silver lining to the dark clouds that hung low over the Northern horizon. Despite the turmoil in the country, I am convinced that public opinion is making itself effectively felt. Who can say that this turmoil may not be an agent which will clear the path for an effective program of reconstruction?"

Turning back to the subject of modern education in China, the Minister was eloquent in his praise of the service being rendered by Dr. F. L. Hawks Pott of St. John's University, of whom he was a former pupil. Of the three chief delegates at Washington, Dr. Koo pointed out, two prepared themselves under Dr. Pott. He referred to himself and Dr. Alfred Sze, Minister to Washington. Sixteen members of the Chinese delegation were alumni of St. John's.

"It is this work of intellectual co-operation between Great Britain, the United States and China that will bring larger results and broader co-operation in our friendly relations," Dr. Koo said in conclusion. "It is an illuminating asset, forming a powerful link that will bind together the scattered ideas and ideals of three continents."

Mr. J. B. Powell, president of the club, presided at the tiffin. Other guests at the meeting included Mr. Chao Chuan, Mr. Y. C. Yang and T. L. Sun, secretaries to Dr. Koo. More than 200 attended the tiffin.

FOR REMOVING SUPERFLUOUS HAIR.

No woman who has any sense of beauty will deny that superfluous hair is one of the greatest drawbacks to good looks.

Realising this, women of all times have put themselves to any expense, and have endured considerable pain and discomfort in order to rid themselves of this great disfigurement.

Nowadays electrolysis is a prevalent "cure" for this evil, but in reality this process involves a great deal of unnecessary expense, waste of time and pain.

The simplest quickest, and most effective treatment can easily be carried out by any sufferer, in the privacy of her home. This is the recipe:

Procure about 1 oz. powdered pheminol from your chemist; mix a sufficient quantity with a few drops of water into a stiff paste. Apply this carefully and thoroughly to the hair you wish to remove, and allow the paste to dry. In a few minutes it can be gently scraped away. The skin is left absolutely free from hair, and should then be carefully washed in warm water, and if desired, lightly dusted with a little talcum powder. (Advt.)

WU'S VICTORY IN NORTH TANGLES DR. SUN'S PLANS

Prestige Of Southern Leader Apparently Shrinking

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, May 9.—Now that the future course of events in the North is becoming clearer there is a good deal of speculation as to the bearing which General Wu's victory will have on the time-worn problem of reunification. This, for the most part, takes the form of a question as to whether an effective consolidation of the country cannot be brought about by joint action between General Wu and General Chen Chiung-ming with or without the elimination of Dr. Sun Yat-sen from China's political stage.

The situation in the South is at present, however, so unsettled that it is difficult to forsee how the changes in the North will be reflected there.

According to a foreign observer who recently returned from Canton, Dr. Sun appeared after the departure of General Chen from Canton to be firmly in the saddle, with at least the laboring classes solidly behind him. The sphere of his influence, on the other hand, had been steadily shrinking for some time, and the claim of Canton to exercise its control over four provinces was becoming more and more an idle boast.

LEAGUE CRUMBLES

With the disintegration of the partnership which was to have made up the punitive expedition against the North the Southern League itself has crumbled leaving little more than Western Kwangtung, the North River valley and a strip of the West River territory actually under the control of Dr. Sun and his colleagues.

Kweichow is entirely absorbed with a domestic quarrel; Yunnan, having emerged from a local revolution, with General Tang Chi-yao (whom Dr. Sun would have outlawed for abandoning the Northern expedition but for the intervention of General Chen Chiung-ming) as its overlord, is remaining aloof; Kwangsi is under the nominal control of an unpopular Civil Governor whose safety in Nanning is entrusted to Kwangtung troops, and for the rest is under the sway of brigands, and General Chen having retired to his ancestral home, the important Hakka center of Weichow, exercises a strong influence over the Eastern half of Kwangtung itself.

Add the fact that bandits are operating within fifty miles of Canton and throughout most of the territory that is nominally hers, and the position of the Southern Government does not seems very hopeful,—all the less hopeful since the defeat of General Chang Tso-lin with whom Dr. Sun had arrived at an understanding in connection with the struggle for ascendency between Chihli and Fengtien.

BASIS OF QUARREL

His quarrel with General Chen appears to have arisen solely from the latter's reluctance to join the Northern expedition. General Chen, as Governor of Kwangtung, was evidently unwilling to squander the resources of the province on participation in Dr. Sun's crusade, and continued obdurate until the assassination at Canton of General Teng Keng, Commander of the 1st Kwangtung Division, and the flight of General Hung Shao-lin commanding the 2nd Kwangtung Division with the declaration by a third adherent, General Wai Bon-ping, of his neutrality in the impending quarrel rendered it impossible to make a stand against Dr. Sun and his returning expeditionary force. General Chen left Canton at one o'clock in the morning of April 22 and Dr. Sun entered it with eight thousand troops on the following day.

General Chen is still understood to have some fifteen thousand troops at his back, but whether he means to depart from his previous pacific policy and employ them in an effort to reinstate himself is doubtful.

General Wu Pei-fu, too, has disavowed any intention of making war on Dr. Sun unless the latter takes the initiative. This seems hardly probable with General Wu's position strengthened by victory and Dr. Sun's weakened by the estrangement of one of his strongest supporters; so that reunification by means of the sword is unlikely for the present. The defeat of General Chang Tso-lin, however, would appear to have eliminated at least some of the difficulties of the situation, and if the present year witnesses the national conference which has been advocated in so many quarters of late and is promised by General Wu, its task as regards reunification will perhaps be less complicated in the clearer atmosphere which promises to succeed the present storm.

China And Japan To Call Shantung Parley In June

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, May 11.—It is understood that a Sino-Japanese conference is to be held at Peking early in June for the purpose of deliberating upon details in connection with the Shantung Treaty, and the Japanese Government has, it is alleged, already decided upon its attitude.

It has been unofficially decided that Mr. Obata, Japanese Minister to Peking, will be appointed as Chief of the Japanese commission, and Mr. Kimura, Secretary of the Foreign Office, who has just returned from his inspection tour of Shantung, as General Manager of affairs.

Judging from the preparations made and the promptitude with which the negotiations on the withdrawal of Japanese railway guards from Shantung have been brought to an amicable conclusion, it is highly probable that it will not take the six months stipulated in the Shantung Treaty before the forthcoming negotiations will be terminated.

The Japanese authorities concerned are desirous of solving the whole Shantung question as soon as possible and it is said that there is full understanding between the Governments of the two countries regarding the arrangements on detailed items.

The Chinese Government has already shown its sincerity as regards the maintenance of public peace, the protection of Japanese residents in Shantung and so on, and the Japanese Government has made it thoroughly understood that Japan has no territorial ambition whatever towards Shantung.

The result has been that the parties concerned of both countries have reached an agreement in the opinion that the peoples of the two Oriental countries shall effect reconciliation and co-operation for the future in Tsingtao and the eight newly opened commercial routes with a view to the furtherance of the relations between Japan and China, which is the principal point in the Shantung Treaty.

It is therefore anticipated that there will be no question of any difficult nature, except for some apprehension regarding the decision to be made on the redemption question or on the method in which to pay the reparation.

The items to be discussed are the retrocession of the leased territory, the disposition of public property, the Shantung Railway, the withdrawal of the Tsingtao Garrison, mines along the Shantung Railway, salt fields, Customs, submarine cables, wireless stations, the withdrawal of post offices and ownership of land and claims to reparation as regards damages done to persons or properties.

In short, the main object of the coming negotiations is, it is reported, to effect co-operation in future between the peoples of the two countries, and to live up strictly to the spirit of the Shantung Treaty by bringing the negotiations to an amicable settlement.

(Eastern News Agency)

Tokio, May 11.—Mr. Kimura, Secretary of the Foreign Office, who returned here today from his inspection tour of Shantung, in an interview with press representatives, made the following statement:

"With regard to the retrocession of Shantung, the Chinese Government is maintaining very sincere and solemn attitude. All parties concerned from Dr. C. T. Wang, Tupan of the Rehabilitation of Shantung Rights, down to a petty police guard are strained and anxious to discharge their respective duties. I could plainly perceive that they were fully awakened to what a shame it was to allow bandits to be rampant in the province after the evacuation of Japanese railway guards.

"If, therefore, the Chinese authorities undertake their duties with the same sincerity they have hitherto shown, it may be said that the uneasiness from which Japanese residents there have been suffering will be eliminated by degrees and that the trade between Japan and China will be furthered more than ever."

Here you see both sides of me

THERE is a distinguishing feature in the business of the house of HAIG & HAIG. Most Distillers have various brands of varying qualities. HAIG & HAIG have one brand only, and they claim (and the public acclaim) that it is the finest that goes from Scotland.

It is a regrettable fact that all retailers have not the same high standard of commercial honesty, and it is known that cheaper brands are sometimes passed on to the public under the label of houses of high repute.

When you see a genuine bottle of HAIG & HAIG Five Stars Scots Whisky it will be the same fine quality in London, in Lucknow, or in Labrador; in the Langham Hotel, in the G.O.H. at Colombo, and in the best Clubs in Cape Town.

EDUCATORS ASK PEKING TO HELP SCHOOL WORK

Want Text Books Exempted From Duty, Also Free Rides

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, May 2.—The directors of the China Progressive Educational Association, Messrs. Hsiung Hsi-ling, Wang Yen-lo, Fan Yuan-lian Chang Hsu-chun, Tsai Yuan-pei, Koo Pien-wen, Yuan Chi-tao, and Li Chien-hsiun, have requested of the Government that duties on imported text books and reference books and laboratory apparatus be cancelled and that free transporation be allowed, in order to promote education and encourage research therein. Three points are brought up:

It is plain enough that to spread education books and apparatus are needed. up to the present time all these have been imported from abroad, since we have no fine text books of our own and no apparatus, and it will be long before we can produce then. Recently the prices of text books and other kinds of books have been raised, due to the rise in exchange.

Even when the rate of exchange was very low, the students could not bear the expense of buying text books. It is said that some of the students buy their text books in groups, some do not buy them, but borrow them from other students, and some are without text books all the year through.

As to reference books, there are hardly any who can afford to buy them. Even the places of education, owing to the fact that the educational funds have not been paid regularly, cannot buy them for the students and teachers. The teachers themselves are not able to buy them in view of the fact that their salaries are barely enough to feed them.

The high prices of books make the situation still worse. We therefore consider it imperative that in order to save the situation the taxes on the imported books be cancelled, so that education may be extended to its full limit.

To study science is now generally considered important. But apparatus is needed in order to carry on experimental work. In our country we have nowhere to make the fine apparatus needed in the study of the sciences, all apparatus being imported from abroad. It is said that none of the universities in China is well equipped and this hinders study. We therefore request that the taxes on apparatus be cancelled, in order to decrease the price of apparatus, and make possible the increase of equipment in the universities.

It is a known fact that education in China is not in any sense uniform, due to the fact that China has such a large area and that communication facilities are not as good as in foreign countries. In the educational statement of Dr. Monroe, the result of his investigations in China, he says that the schools in all the provinces have their points of excellence, which owing to their being scattered cannot be transmitted from one to the other. The chief reason is that the cost of travelling for the purposes of research is too high.

It is imperative that at this period of education when it is in its so-called "sprouting stage," research and investigation must be encouraged, and teachers and educators should travel from school to school, to bring about some progress and co-ordination. We therefore request that any individual or any educational association with such purposes in view be granted free railway tickets. But a detailed statement of their investigations is required to be presented to the respective authorities in charge, when they have concluded their intended investigating tour. In this way the free tickets will not be given at random, as the authorities concerned have to petition the Ministry of Communications and as statements of their investigations are required.

SHANGHAI MEETS NANKING LANGUAGE SCHOOL TEAM AT 2:30 THIS AFTERNOON

First Important Game Of Season Finds Two Teams of Unknown Strength Opposed; Should Game Prove Interesting A Series Will Be Booked For Memorial Day

The Shanghai Baseball Club's best nine and the team of the Nanking Language School will meet this afternoon on the Club's field in the first important game of the season—a game that may lead to other important series between the two organisations later in the present season. Play commences promptly at 2:30 o'clock.

The game originally was expected to be the first to be played in front of the grand stands this year, but delays in erecting the stands due to extensive repairing have made that impossible. Spectators will be accommodated with temporary benches as far as possible. The matched clubhouse with its showers and other comforts will be available for the players nevertheless.

But little is known of the merits of the two teams. Shanghai is known to have several good men left over from last year and two old timers who have returned to the game here after years of absence. And there are other very promising recruits who may make up a nine of considerable strength.

Nanking is in about the same position. Captain Harry Kingman of the visiting team who arrived in town yesterday says he has four or five real ball players on his nine and some others who can get by. His men have had a long spell of practicing and are expected to put up a good game against the local team today.

Should the two nines prove to be fairly evenly matched it is almost a certainty now that Nanking will visit Shanghai again on Saturday, May 27, for a three game series running over to and including the Memorial Day holiday, and come down again later in the season for other games.

The teams today line up as follows:

SHANGHAI	NANKING
Woods 1b	Fowler 3b
Holliday 2b	White 1b
Bills ss	Wylie ss
Campbell cf	Kingman p
Maloney 3b	Gray c
Bruce c	Blackstone 2b
Scott lf	Holroyd lf
Smith rf	Schmidt rf
Wynn p	Hollingshead cf

Scott and Wynn will probably change off after a few innings so that both men may set a good work out and Howland, Hubbard, Whelmni and others will be worked in at fielding positions when the occasion warrants. Nanking also contemplates using two subs where they may fit. The starting lineup it is believed, however, will stand as listed above.

SAYS 'BUGS' Baer:

THE PRINCE WHO KNEW NO FEAR

Gink Was So Cold That Mustard Plasters Gave Him Frost Bites

BY "BUGS" BAER

Dear Sir—How comes it that the story of Gink's past has leaked so much into the future?

Was the Roughtown champ so porous that you could use his picture for a screen door? As umpire of the Boots League did he ever get into any arguments?

Right or wrong, he must have been wrong.

Yours sincerely,
HENRY FOBB, Newark.

Gink's first international scuffle in the Boots League was when he fined Roughtown's leading citizen $29,000,000 for violating Roughtown's collapsible ordinance regulating whistles on double-jointed peanut stands.

Then he horned into another nest of wire-haired wolves when he suspended the Boots League's leading batter for sliding to first on a base on balls. This enraged the fans so much that they started forging weather reports.

Before stepping off the wharf, we will describe the Boots League. It was a circuit of paper caps, second-handed uniforms, recovered baseballs, mended bats, half-soled-and-heeled infields and patched money.

Life started to look like a panorama of knuckles to Gink, but there wasn't any problem he couldn't solve by sneaking out the back door. When he started south to train he had a tough time selecting his quarters.

Not that he claimed the recent World War was a frame-up. He admitted it was on the level. All he claimed was that they didn't fight as hard as they could have.

His first appearance on the ball field was a signal for the now famous hit-and-run play. One fan. One pop bottle. One decision. Gink was the guy who got hit and he was the bird to run.

Then the squeeze play was pulled. With only one chunk of petty larceny needed to win the biscuits, eight fans got Gink's fingers in the door jamb and started to squeeze.

Stepping off the train at Long View, he was greeted by a posse of Texans who came down to the sheds to see the train pull in and pull out Gink.

They escorted him to the duplex jailhouse and gave him carte blanche. He was at liberty to go anywhere that the two-ton chain would stretch to.

The season was open and Gink ruled supreme. But remember, you can't get silk from boll weevils. There were to be dark deeds, violence and syncopated crime before Roughtown finally copped the pennant.

In fact, by the time the Summer was evaporated, Gink ran into so many enemies, he thought the Four Horsemen had settled down and raised big families.

CARPENTIER KNOCKS TED LEWIS OUT IN FIRST ROUND OF DISAPPOINTING BATTLE

Terrific Right To Jaw On Break-Away From Clinch Ends Bout After Two Minutes 15 Seconds Of Fighting; Georges May Now Be Matched With Dempsey

(Reuter's Service)

London, May 11.—Georges Carpentier proved himself the greatest fighter in Europe today when he knocked out Ted Lewis in the first round of the battle which may mean that the Frenchman will have another chance at Jack Dempsey's heavyweight crown. It is now expected that Dempsey and Carpentier will fight late this year in either London or Paris.

Carpentier finished Lewis two minutes and fifteen seconds after the bell rang for the opening round. Lewis rushed from his corner at the bell and the men clinched. The referee warned them. Lewis rushed again, driving home lefts and rights to Carpentier's face and head. The French fighter again went into a clinch and was again warned by the referee for holding.

Carpentier tried a right to the jaw and missed. Another clinch followed and on the breakaway, Carpentier let loose a terrific right which landed flush on Lewis' jaw. The latter was cleanly knocked out.

The knockout was followed by an uproar from the crowd who claimed that Carpentier had fouled Lewis.

The referee rightly decided, however, that Carpentier had held, but hit on the breakaway. Marquis of Queensbury rules insist that a man must protect himself coming from a clinch.

A portion of the crowd hooted

Russian Is Jailed For Appropriating Friend's Gold Watch

For misappropriation of a gold watch entrusted to him for sale by a friend E. Shmarovin, an unemployed Russian, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment, to be followed by deportation to Vladivostok, by Assessor Ivanoff and Magistrate Tsang in the Mixed Court yesterday.

The complainant, M. P. Dranishnikon, testified that knowing the accused to be in financial straits, he gave him his watch and two suits of clothes to sell on commission. He offered $10. The accused later reported that he had sold the watch and would get the money next day. The complainant became suspicious and visited the railway station that evening, finding accused in a 3rd class car on the train about to depart for Nanking. He was wearing one of the suits of clothes and the other, which he said he had sold, was found in his luggage.

The accused refused to make any statement in the matter. The complainant must pay $65 to recover the watch from the jeweller to whom it was sold.

Further Argument Heard In Point Hotel Bankruptcy Matter

An application for the recovery of furniture and fixtures of the bankrupt Point Hotel, alleged to have been sold the hostelry by a Chinese firm of dealers, marked the third hearing of the affairs of the resort in the Mixed Court yesterday. Mr. L. K. Kentwell appeared for the appellant; Messrs. J. W. Schoenfeld and M. B. Brown appeared for the defendant, Mr. Richmond, former proprietor of the hotel and creditors. Assessor Tenney and Magistrate Loh heard the pleadings. The application was finally referred to the Court accountants.

Mr. Kentwell argued that his client had sold the furniture and fixtures to the defendant but that they had never been paid for in full. He questioned the right of a German, from whom his client purchased the goods, to sell property in China during or after the War. He urged that creditors of the bankrupt hotel could not benefit by the furniture inasmuch as it had not yet been paid for.

Argument for the hotel, submitted by Mr. Schoenfeld in short was that the Point Hotel company no longer was in control of the furniture and fixtures —that they were in fact in the hands of the receivers appointed last February by the Court. The claim, he said should be considered by the receivers equally with all other creditors of the bankrupt company.

Carpentier Knocks Out Ted Lewis

Carpentier as the latter was on the way to his dressing room.

London, May 11.—In the twenty-round contest for the Light-heavyweight Championship of the World at Olympia today, Georges Carpentier knocked out Kid Lewis with a right to the jaw in the first round.

A huge crowd assembled to witness the fight. The Duke of York and the French Ambassador were also present.

Lewis was the first to appear, followed a minute later by Georges Carpentier. Both were given a tremendous reception. It was a disappointing fight and only lasted a hundred and fifty seconds. At the start Lewis rushed across and clinched, the referee separated the contestants and warned them both. Another clinch followed, Lewis landing rights to the ribs. Lewis then led with a right to the face, then in a clinch Carpentier sent in a nasty uppercut. The Frenchman missed a right to the jew but in the breakaway from a clinch which followed, he landed a right arm jolt to the chin, finishing the fight.

At the end of the fight Carpentier assisted Lewis to his corner.

Interesting Papers Heard By Woman's Club Section

Two vivid and picturesque papers were read before the Literary Department of the American Woman's Club at its meeting yesterday afternoon at the hall of the Royal Asiatic Society.

Mrs. J. J. Brenneman gave a spirited biographical sketch of Shih Huang Ti, "the Napoleon of China," contrasting his faults and virtues, his strength and weakness. His uncontrolled ambition often functioned brilliantly for the development of his Empire but his motives were basically self-seeking and he was an easy prey to those who could work upon his superstitions. He had absolutely no self-control and those who rebuked him for his cruelty were speedily put out of the way, as was the case with the 27 literati who remonstrated with him for the banishment of his mother. On the other hand the logical reproaches of the daring Mao Chiao so appealed to his sense of justice that he recalled his mother and made Mao his Prime Minister.

THE "MAGIC ISLANDS"

One interesting instance of his superstition is found in his paying credence to the story of the priests of three magical islands where the plant of immortality grew. To obtain this drug he sent out under Hsu Fu an expedition of 500 boys and 500 girls to find these islands. The questers set out from the vicinity of Chefoo and were never heard of again, but it is surmised that it was they who first carried Chinese art to Japan.

The greatest monument to this dominant spirit is the Great Wall, commencing at Liu-tao and continuing to Liao-tung, on which one million men are said to have been employed for from five to ten years. In 213 B.C., urged thereto by those who wished to obliterate the Confucian system, and impelled by his own desire to stimulate fresh literary efforts, Shih Huang Ti committed the vandalism of the burning of the books, an unforgiveable outrage.

Many excellent domestic reforms stand to his credit and his public and private life is a series of contradictions which challenge the interest of the psycho-analyst. He made of his capitol a brilliant center, its compound covering 300 li, to obtain which he had to move 800 families.

KILLED TO KEEP SECRET

At last in Shantung he contracted a fatal illness and in 210 B.C. he died at the age of 50, directing that the workmen who knew the secrets of its treasures should be killed and buried in the magnificent mausoleum which he had planned, as well as all his concubines who had not borne him sons. Cruel and vindictive as was his personal character, his great political genius cannot be denied for it was due to him that China became a united people.

Mrs. H. E. Davis read a most delightful paper on the early poetry of China, stating that the earliest lyrics of China abounded in quaint odes, songs, and ballads of love and heroism. In the great collection of writings attributed to Confucius the first division contains the Poems of State and to illustrate this Mrs. Davis read "The Great Ho River." The second and third division contains the greater and minor odes and as an example the poem "The Cloudy River," describing a terrible drought and voicing the world-old query "Why must I suffer?" was read with sympathetic interpretation. The fourth division, Hymns of the Temple and Altar, was illustrated by a hymn of sacrifice.

LATER POETRY ELUSIVE

"Poetry subsequent to Confucius and before the Han Dynasty," said Mrs. Davis, "became elusive, allegorical."

In this period was produced the poem of "The Great Summons," where the poet, the hero of the Dragon Festival, calls upon his soul to return to his body, tempting it with the description of all possible pleasures.

Other poems, scarcely more than inscriptions, were found on articles such as basins or bath tubs and often contained much sententious wisdom. The reading of the sturdy "Husbandman's Song" closed a most valuable resume.

The next meeting of the department will be held May 26 at the Royal Asiatic Society's Hall, with papers by Mrs. Loehr and Miss Tuttle. On Saturday, May 20, in the library of the Christian Literature Society, Mr. Morgan's paintings will be on exhibition from 10 to 6 and all members of the department and friends are invited to view them.

League Council Opens 18th Session

(Reuter's Service)

Geneva, May 12.—The Council of the League of Nations opened its eighteenth session today.

Earl Balfour proposed the placing on the agenda of the question of the approval of the terms of the British mandate in Palestine. He said that the British and American negotiations in that connection had been successfully concluded and declared that the United States did not object to the assignment of the mandate to Britain but merely stipulated that the system of capitulations should be resumed if Britain should cease to be the mandatory Power. Earl Balfour urged that delay in solving the question would only result in trouble. The Council decided to leave the question until Saturday.

Prince Of Wales To Spend Three Days In Manila

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Manila, May 12.—The following plans have been arranged for the Prince of Wales' visit to Manila:

May 13.—Arrival of the Prince of Wales. The Renown will be escorted by United States destroyers from the three mile limit. Governor General Wood and officials will call on board the Renown. The Prince will land at noon and will be entertained to tiffin at the Malacanang Palace. In the afternoon His Royal Highness will play in a polo match at the Manila Polo Club between picked teams from Camp Stotsenburg and the Manila Polo Club. In the evening a dinner and reception will be held at the Malacanang Palace.

May 14.—In the morning, the Prince will inspect Fort McKinley and attend divine service. In the afternoon there will be a garden party for the reception of British veterans at the British Club. In the evening the Prince will give a dinner on board the Renown.

May 15.—In the morning the Prince will inspect the Cavite Naval Station and play polo at Manila in the afternoon. The Renown will sail at seven o'clock in the evening.

Major-General Bundy, who commanded the 2nd Division at Chateau Thierry, will act as Aide-de-Camp to the Prince during his visit.

Small Factories In U. S. Employ Majority Of Men

(Chung Mei Service)

New York, April 13.—That more than ninety-eight percent of all manufacturing establishments in the United States employed 100 wage-earners or fewer in the great industrial boom year of 1919 is one of the interesting and significant facts shown by a graphic development, in chart form, prepared by the National Industrial Conference Board from data of the United States census of manufacturers.

An examination of the chart shows that while the overwhelming majority of manufacturing establishments in the United States are thus what would be called today small shops, a large majority of wage earners are to be found in establishments employing more than 100 workers.

The total number of establishments covered by the United States census of manufacturers of 1919 was 290,105. Of this number 141,859 employed from one to five workers, making a total of 312,404 workers in the entire group. Of the large establishments employing more than 1,000 workers there were only 1,019, according to the census figures, but this relatively small number employed a total of 2,390,019 of the 9,096,372 workers. Nearly twice that number of workers, however, or 4,037,084, worked in establishments employing from 101 to 1,000 workers.

Two British Firms Make Port Tenders

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, May 6 (delayed).—Information from the Ministry of Communications indicates that tenders for the construction of Hulutao Port will be opened on June 6. Vickers (China) Ltd. and William Forbes and Company of Peking are the only two British tenderers.

Labor Heads Deny Part In Explosion

(Reuter's Service)

Chicago, May 11.—The labor leaders arrested yesterday include "Big Tim" Murphy, President of the Gasworkers Union, and "Con" Shea, leader of the historic teamsters' strike in 1914 which resulted in considerable violence.

All the men have been questioned but hitherto deny all knowledge of the killing of the police.

Spot and forward bar silver were each ⅛d. in London yesterday.

The New York price advanced to 70 cents, and the London-New York cross rate is unchanged at 444¾.

The official Sterling rate this morning was raised to 3-6, the Gold Dollar rate to 77¾, the Yen rate dropped to 61½, and the other rates changed in proportion.

Our market was steady to firm in the morning, there being sellers of Sterling at 3-6¼ for all deliveries up to July, and of Gold Dollars at 78¼ for May-June, and 78⅛ for July-August. In the afternoon rates firmed up considerably, speculators being strong sellers, and the market closed very firm indeed, with sellers of Sterling at 3-6⅝ for May delivery and 3-6½ for any delivery to September.

There were sellers of Gold Dollars at the close at 78¾ for May-June and 78⅝ for July-August.

There were a few bills offering today which tended to further strengthen the market.

India bought a small amount of silver in London yesterday, and the market there is reported as steady.

The New York market is less firm, closing with sellers.

U. S. Debt Refunding Bill Extends Maturity To 1947

(Chung Mei Service)
Washington, April 15.—The bill for the refunding of the foreign debts to the United States, which recently passed both houses of Congress, has a feature which probably reflects the prevailing attitude in the United States on suggestions made both there and in Europe for the remission of these debts in part or in toto. This feature, which so far has been commented on by only a small section of the press, is the refusal of Congress to give the Executive a free hand in negotiating these settlements.

Under the terms of the bill, a commission of five members, headed by the Secretary of the Treasury, will have authority, headed by the Secretary of the President, to refund or convert, and to extend the time of the payment of the principal or the interest, or both, of the foreign debt.

Bonds of one foreign Government can not be accepted for those of another, nor can any part of the foreign indebtedness be cancelled.

The date of the maturity of the obligations accepted by the commission, however, can not extend beyond June 15, 1947, and the interest rate can not be less than four and a half percent.

The life of the commission will be three years from the date of the approval of the act and the members other than the Secretary of the Treasury will be appointed by the President, subject to confirmation by the Senate. During its life the commission will be required to make annual reports to Congress at the beginning of each regular session in December.

The New York Tribune (Republican) points out how by the two restrictive clauses concerning the interest and the date of maturity, the bill limits the discretion of the Federal commission charged with funding operations. "Congress has been reluctant to give the Executive the free hand which it needs in negotiating these troublesome debt settlements," it says. "The legislative branch seems fearful that a part of the foreign debt principal will be remitted. That is the American attitude today. It may change or may not change. All depends on the extent to which Europe can be economically regenerated in the next couple of decades.

"But the fact remains that the same yardstick cannot be advantageously applied in all the readjustments. A foreign debt commission should have broad powers rather than narrow ones. Consideration for varying circumstances and flexibility in methods are essential to the wise handling of a very delicate political and economic problem."

The New York World (Democratic) has the same point of view in regard to the bill. "As the matter now stands," it asserts, "the executive commission provided will not have to go to Congress for approval of its arrangements, but Congress by its restrictions will have robbed the commission beforehand of all power to reach conclusions and make tentative bargains in accordance with the facts as found by a study of debtor conditions.

"The country will never get anywhere with its foreign war-debt problem in this way. It can refund and rearrange and extend until the crack of doom without bringing the debt out of its present nebulous state if rates of interest and times of payment are insisted on in advance which bear no relation whatever to what any of the debtors can do. The proposed commission should be instructed, without conditions, to look into the whole question of what can be done as a practical matter and then report to Congress."

The bill as finally enacted was unsatisfactory both to the Administration and Republican leaders of the House of Representative, but it is reported that objections to it were not pressed because of the delay involved, and that negotiations with the foreign governments concerned will be inaugurated soon.

Graham Taylor On Christianity In China

Graham Taylor, one of the foremost social workers in the United States, the founder and head of Chicago Commons, and for twenty years editorial contributor to The Chicago Daily News, The Survey, and other newspapers and periodicals which take the lead in the discussion of social questions, has just left Shanghai after spending several weeks here.

During his visit he attended the sessions of the National Christian Conference, interviewed many leaders, and gave considerable time to a study of social conditions in China. Just before his departure he wrote the following impressions of his visit, not as a neophyte prophet with a griffin's 'cure-all' for China, but in the light of his exceptional experience and knowledge of like conditions throughout the world. The article is reproduced from last night's Evening Star:

BY GRAHAM TAYLOR

First impressions are not sufficient to be the basis of any mature conclusions, especially upon such a complex and vast situation as China confronts. In the background of everything I have seen or read about China, lies the combination of intense individualism and of a sense of solidarity such as I have never before seen brought so closely together.

Loyalty to local communities and their natural associations of kinship and neighborship are in striking contrast with the very prevalent indifference to national issues. To whatever extent this may be due to the usurpation of authority and to the personal or factional exploitation of its financial inperquisites, yet patriotism must extend beyond town and province if peace and progress are to supersede administrative chaos, and paralysing instability in political and industry.

The bearing of these traits upon the acutely critical situation now faced by China is of the utmost significance. Western peoples have only to remember how long it took their nations to pass through the experiences which the Chinese are experiencing all at once, to have patient and charitable views of China's evolution. The movements of their "new thought" in education, their religious transition, their democratic determination and the still more revolutionary changes which modern industrialism is rapidly developing, at least correspond to the long periods of the Renaissance, The Reformation, the rise of democracy and the industrial revolution, through which Europe and America have been passing for centuries. But China is under the incalculable stress and strain of passing through all these transitions at one and the same time.

Without a representative parliamentary assembly, or any widely-recognised governmental leadership, there seems to be little scope for statesmanship to play an essential part, dominated as it is now by provincial military dictatorships.

Two events of the past fortnight stand in striking dramatic contrast; namely, the outbreak and as yet inconclusive results of civil war, on the one hand and, on the other hand, the success of the National Christian Conference in session here at Shanghai. Although its 1,100 or more delegates directly represent constituencies aggregating not more than a million people, yet they represent a more constructive leadership and more direct perparatory training along all the above-mentioned lines of experience than are to be found elsewhere in China.

Despite the accusation that Christianity inhibits rather than promotes scientific inquiry, it cannot be denied that the Christian missionary schools, colleges and universities have led the way to the new education and scientific inquiry among the Chinese people. The laboratories, the agricultural experiment stations, the medical schools and hospitals, and the teaching methods in most other departments, are outstanding assertions of Christian loyalty to the scientific spirit. Throughout all discussions in this remarkably free and independent conference, the Chinese half of its delegates proved the inculcation of this spirit by insisting upon the application of the scientific method in the whole range of Christian thought and activity.

That the religious regenerative forces introduced by Protestant missions have taken root in the Chinese heart and conscience was evident from the continuous insistence upon liberty to develop religious thought and action so independently of "foreign" control that Christianity will be seen to be "naturalised" in China and "indigenous" to its people's life. To this insistence the missionaries from many lands and of many nationalities in the West, gave prompt and cordial assent. Gratitude for their initiative and guidance, and welcome for their continued advisory influence, were assured with great cordiality by their Chinese brethren.

While partisan politics had no recognition in the discussions and outlook of the conference, yet it did not fail to demand that Chinese churches and Christian educational institutions make every effort to apply the Christian standards of honesty, public spirit, service and democracy in order to arouse and direct China's new patriotism.

The unswerving, robust democracy exemplified in all the proceedings of this Conference set the type and standards upon which only the democracy of the State can survive and develop.

Although newer to the observation and experience of the delegates, especially those coming from the villages, the bearings of the modern industrial developments in China upon the personal and national character were boldly faced and very directly dealt with. Reminded of the experience of Western peoples at the introduction of the factory system, and in the divisive economic industrial issues which have since become so acute, this great Conference wisely determined to grapple with these issues in advance. With rare intelligence and with a practical caution quite as rare, action was taken. While unreservedly insisting upon personal rights and public interest as being of paramount public and religious importance above all greed for gain or mere industrial development, the Conference contented itself with insisting upon the adherence of all Christians to only a few specific points of industrial policy.

To the utmost of their ability, the churches and their members were bidden to stand against the employment of little children, whose right to learn and play was thus affirmed; to stand for one day's rest in seven; and to promote the safeguarding of life and health by safety devices and sanitary conditions in industry. This initiative in applying ethics and religion to industry may point the way toward peaceful evolution, out of inpending revolutionary warfare in industry.

Not only by the progressive attitude assumed in this conference toward all these pending issues, but more still, by the fine give-and-take spirit shown within these hitherto divided constituencies, the National Christian Conference may prove to have contributed more valuably to the unity of China than any other assembly of its people since China overthrew its ancient dynasties in order to become a modern Republic.

Why Go Far Away To Burn The Incense?

BY DR. CHARLES FLEISCHER

A Chinese proverb says: Better do a good deed near at home than go far away to burn incense.

You remember the ugly, old story of the man who was seen berating and beating a woman. When a courageous passerby protested against such treatment of a lady the brute said she was not a lady, but his wife!

That same beast could probably be a "perfect gentleman" if he wanted to make a good impression upon a "lady" who was not his wife!

This type—and you should make sure that, in some way, you do not include yourself in this kind—find it easier to go far away to burn incense than to do a good deed near at home.

One often hears a cynical comment on the praise of a financial brigand who happens to be not only correct in his domestic relations, but even a conspicuously fine husband and a devoted father.

It would be better, of course, if he were as noble "abroad" as he is at home; but, if choice has to be made, is it not well to give a preferential tribute of appreciation to the domestic burner of incense?

So common folks put on their best front for strangers, and show their worst face at home! Evidently that was the case with a certain couple. A woman congratulated her friend on having married such a splendid man as her husband.

"Oh, but you ought to live with him!" was the tactless reply.

That is an unpleasant subject, and perhaps needs not be pursued further, because it probably brings pain and no balm of solution to many who are similarly circumstanced.

Therefore, let us take a short trip really abroad, before we bring our theme home again. We are now in India, let us say, at the headquarters of some foreign missionary enterprise. Consecrated workers, who have travelled thousands of miles away from their normal setting, literally spend their lives in order to bring religion to the Orient, whence all light has come to the West!

Study the statistics of the men and women and millions annually involved, and the pitifully meagre results—and you are bound to admit that here is a flagrant instance of going far away to burn incense.

One does not question the sincerity of these undertakings, if one at least queries how much more good—even in soul-saving!—could be done by the same men and women and millions used in "home missions."

However, there is not so much to kindle the imagination in dealing with the sordid domestic problems, which continuously confront you with your impotence!

Still, if you must burn incense in missions, it's just as well to know that much more than half of our population has no contact whatever with any form of organised religion! Plenty of change for your good deed therefore at home!

And so we might continue to illustrate, impersonally, the canny wisdom of the old Chinese proverb.

We waste so much of ourselves in sighing, Alexanderlike, for new worlds to conquer, when we are far from having made fine conquest of the little world in which we live!

Honestly, now, how nearly up to standard are you in this regard? Have you the habit of burning your incense at home? Are you your best and do you do your best, among your nearest, or do you keep fairest face for strangers?

Last Summer we knew a young woman who kept a camp in the New Hampshire hills. She had to get her ice supply more than half a mile away. No woman is more grand and no bride is happier than this young woman on her daily march, trundling with cheer her wheelbarrowful of ice!

That is the way to dignify your most menial task and to transform sordidness into beauty!

Your spirit is the great transformer. Let it help you first to make a heavenly kingdom of your immediate setting and a sacrament of your humble task.

Who knows what else may yet be added to you?

Railways' Decline Menace To Business And Prosperity

BY SAMUEL O. DUNN
Editor, Railroad Age

There is absolutely no way to solve the railroad problem under private ownership which does not include letting the railways earn net returns that are reasonable compared with those earned in other lines of business.

The decline in the development of the railways has continued until it has become a menace to the business and prosperity of the entire country. The railways with their existing capacity could hardly handle a larger traffic than they handled in 1920. In view of past experience it is reasonable to assume that after business revives the demand made for transportation will within a few years be 40 to 50 percent larger than in 1920. Railway freight business increased 40 percent between 1906 and 1913, and again increased 40 percent between 1913 and 1920. In the former period, however, the number of locomotives increased 24 percent and the number of freight cars also 24 percent while in the seven years ending with 1920 the number of both locomotives and cars increased only slightly over 2 percent. The railways handled the heavy business of 1917, 1918 and 1920 largely with surplus capacity provided in earlier years. Their surplus capacity was exhausted by 1920, and future increases of business must be handled if at all with increases of capacity made in future.

You may consolidate the railways or not consolidate them. You may repeal the rate-making provisions of the transportation act as many advocate, or you may let them stand. You may increase the powers of the labor board and the interstate commerce commission or you may reduce them. Whatever else is done, however, the railways will not be able adequately to increase their facilities and they will not be able to handle a largely increased traffic when it comes unless they are allowed to earn a net return sufficient to cause new investment of from $1,000,000,000 or $2,000,000,000 a year in their securities for some years.

What net return should they be allowed to earn? Experience for at least fifteen years has shown that when they've earned an average of less than 5½ percent on their property investment the new investment in them and their expansion, have immediately begun to decline. A return of 6 percent on the valuation made for the interstate commerce commission in the rate case in 1920 is substantially equal to 5½ percent on their property investment. Therefore, it is a reasonable conclusion based on experience, that if the country is to be provided with adequate railroad service it must allow the railways to earn an average return, year by year, of 6 percent on their valuation. The railways are not guaranteed this amount, and they should not ask to be guaranteed it but the public should allow them to earn it because it is in the public interest.

To allow the railways to earn reasonable net returns does not involve keeping their rates high. Their net return in 1921 was $500,000,000 less than in 1916, although their rates were much higher. Their rates had to be so much higher mainly because their operating expenses for handling a traffic no larger were $2,300,000,000 more than in 1916. The only remedy for high rates is the reduction of operating expenses. One of the things most needed to make possible large and permanent reductions of expenses is the investment of a large amount of capital in improvements which will enable the railways to operate more economically. Neither the capital needed for these improvements nor that needed to enable the railways to expand their capacity can be raised unless the railways are allowed to earn a reasonable net return.

Reductions of rates are desirable, but any reductions made in disregard of the necessity of the railway earning adequate net returns will indefinately postpone needed improvements and increases in capacity, and will not only tend to keep rates higher in future than would otherwise be necessary, but by restricting the traffic the railways can handle will soon have a very serious effect upon the welfare of the country.

An Unsolved Mystery

BY THE SPECTATOR

On Saturday, the 25th of February, in the early light of a Winter morning in the city of Versailles, in France, Landru, called the Bluebeard of Gambais, had his head chopped off by the guillotine.

It was the concluding act of what has been the most sensational criminal case in Europe for many a year.

What intrigues the imagination, however, most of all is that the execution of the accused by no means solves the mystery which surrounds him.

He was charged with having murdered at least ten women and maybe more, but not one of the bodies was ever found.

He was charged with having cut them up and burnt them in a little kitchen stove which he had in his cottage at Gambais, but proof of this was more convincing by its picturesque appeal than by any facts adduced.

He was tried by newspapers and condemned by public opinion. There are times when such things are too strong for the law and strict justice.

The case as it was presented against him was ghastly and full of thrills enough to satisfy the most morbid curiosity. He was supposed to have such a way with women that he lured any number of them into marrying him. It was deemed from the circumstantial evidence that his motive was gain. He got a little property, not much, from each of these women. As he got tired of each one he killed her in some way or other and burned the portions of the body in his stove. The case was tried in Versailles and furnished a front page sensation for all newspapers in Europe.

He was defended by Maitre de Moro Giafferi, who has the reputation of being the most skilful criminal lawyer in France.

In spite of all the efforts of his counsel he was condemned to death by the jury who, however, curiously enough, recommended him to the mercy of the Court.

Surely if his crime was proved he deserved no mercy. And just as surely if his crime was not proved he should have gone free.

His case was laid by his attorney before the President of France, who, however, refused to pardon him or to commute his sentence, and he was executed.

The whole trial was attended by a strange mixture of the grotesque and the uncanny, as well as the horrible. A member of the French Cabinet commenting upon it said, in substance. "It is an alarming thing that Landru has been condemned. He was found guilty because he could not tell what had become of the various women whom he had loved. I myself have loved several women in my time and I could not for the life of me give you the addresses of any of them. Should I be executed for that?"

Landru maintained his peculiar attitude of calm self-composure up to the very last. Maitre de Moro Giafferi, whose experience with criminals of the most notorious kind is second to that of no other European lawyer, was emphatic in his praise of Landru's courage. He attended the execution. Afterward he declared:

He went to his death like a gentleman: He was courteous, self-possessed, even grimly witty at his own expense. "I thank from the bottom of my heart for troubling to come," he said to the chaplain when the latter asked him whether he would hear mass, "but I will not keep those gentlemen waiting," and he pointed to the prison authorities and the executioners. He took me by both hands and said, "Maitre, I know I am the first client of yours who has been condemned to the guillotine. I am sorry to create so sad a precedent."

M. Ducros, the head police officer who was present at the execution, said: "I have seen twenty-two capital sentences carried out, but Landru's bearing was unique in my experience. There is the common type of condemned man who breaks down utterly, and there is the swaggering type with assumed air of indifference. But Landru faced the scaffold coolly, deliberately, and like a man who is master of an untroubled mind."

"The greatest mystery in the history of crime," is what Maitre de Moro Giafferi called his dead client.

-:- Why Babies Die -:-

More than 100,000 of the 250,000 children less than one year old who die every year in the United States die from causes connected with their birth, says the U. S. Public Health Service. The need, it adds, for further study and investigation of these causes is urgent.

* * *

Vitamines Not a Cure-All.

The present popular tendency to extol vitamines as a cure-all may be drawing to a close. The U. S. Public Health Service reports that efforts during the year to discover the unidentified food substance whose absence from the diet causes pellagra have excluded two of the three known vitamines. The search for the missing element is being steadily narrowed.

* * *

Each Dollar Brings Five More.

The U. S. Public Health Service reports that the expenditure of $50,000 for rural hygiene work on the co-operative plan in the last fiscal year led to the appropriation of five times as much by States and counties and of a good deal more by private individuals and corporations.

* * *

Who's Efficient Now?

Uncle Sam may owe arsphenamine (salvarsan) to Germany but he has improved it a lot since he took over its manufacture some years ago. Today, says the U. S. Public Health Service, it and its fellows pass tests that are twice as rigid, which means that the drugs themselves are twice as safe as they ever were before.

Mosquito Control

Co-operative anti-mosquito work in 45 towns situated in 10 Southern States has cut down their malaria rate by 75 to 90 percent, says U. S. Public Health Service. It saved its cost several times (in one town eight times) in doctor's bills and lost wages, all of which are items that are positive and ascertainable.

* * *

Don't Infect Mosquitoes.

Commenting on printed reports on mosquito control in such diverse countries as Spain and the Dutch East Indies, the U. S. Public Health Service calls attention to the fact that the government authorities who are trying to free a certain region in Spain of malaria refuse to allow sufferers from that disease to remain in the region overnight lest they infect the malaria-bearing mosquitoes, which feed only at night. Few white people live in the region; and most of the sufferers come from considerable distances and seem to have contracted malaria while working there in previous years. Their blood is examined and they are provided with sufficient quinine to last them for two weeks and are told to go home at once and to report back at the end of that period for another two weeks supply.

The theory is, of course, that if mosquitoes cannot find a malaria patient to bite they cannot acquire malaria germs and therefore cannot pass them on to well persons. In other words, if men do not infect mosquitoes, mosquitoes will not infect men.

Incidentally, the Service notes that the American minnows, Gambusia affinis, are being imported into Spain and Italy to help in mosquito eradication.

SUPER-DURABLE
FLAT
FLAT WALL FINISH

A perfect Paint of smooth surface for Interior Wall Coating

The surface obtainable with this paint is smooth and flat, i.e., it is not a grainy, dead, lifeless finish, but of a velvety texture. It dries in a reasonably quick time, so that work can be carried out effectively, yet has the property of remaining open long enough to enable the worker to cover a large surface of wall without making laps or edges.

Excellent results with Super Durable Flat Finish are easily obtained, irrespective of the skill of the user, and an elaborate preparation of the surface is usually quite unnecessary.

Super Durable Flat Finish has been tried on non-absorbent surfaces of all kinds and where distemper and oil paint have proved prone to shell or flake off, it has always adhered. It gives a lasting finish of surprising beauty.

1 Imperial Gallon covers about 130 square yards one coat.

WILKINSON HEYWOOD & CLARK LIMITED

The Week's Market Report

In their weekly report on the Shanghai piece-goods trade, Messrs, Noel, Murray and Company write as follows:

Cotton.—There has been a big jump in cotton prices in Liverpool, and Spot Good Middlings have reached 11.64d. a rise of 73 points; July cotton is 11.31d. and October 11.16d. Bengals are up to 8.20d. and Egyptians to 17.75d. In Bombay Bengals are quoted Rs. 361, Oomras Rs. 418 and Broach Rs. 498, all a few points higher than last. New York had its rise last week, and yesterday Spot was 10 points lower at 19.90 cents, July 19.31, October 19.38, December 19.40, January 19.23 and March 19.35 cents. The Indian Government's preliminary final report on the cotton crop makes a very drastic cut in the estimate of 5,500,000; one million bales are deducted, leaving the probable crop at 4,500,000 bales only! Apparently it is human for Government statisticians to err.

Home Market.—There is very little of interest from Manchester in the way of market information. to enable an opinon to be formed as to the situation there, but the general opinion is that things are firmer.

Local Market.—A wonderful change has been effected within the duration of a few days and if reports can be believed, General Wu Peifu is the victor in one of the shortest and most brilliant of military campaigns in the history of China.

Its effect was reflected on the market here, and buying has begun again for such centers as are not within the late fighting areas.

For the fourth week no auctions have been held, but considerable quantities of auction cargo have been disposed of privately to buyers who were anxious to obtain supplies for the South and centers around Shanghai, and it is believed at the moment that the sales will be started successfully next week. Clearances have been on a much reduced scale this week but they may be expected to show an improvement almost immediately.

Yarn.—The Chinese and Japanese Mills have continued to make sales and 3,900 bales have changed hands at prices which show some decline. A fair quantity of yarn has been sold "short" on the Exchanges and it seems that prices do not fall quickly enough to please the bears. The retailers have taken 4,200 bales for resale in Bundles; also 375 bales of Indian yarn have been disposed of.

ROSENFELD REPORT

In their weekly report on the Cotton market, Messrs. A. B. Rosenfeld and Son write as follows:

China Cotton.—During the past week the market displayed a steady tendency, at the close the undertone was firm. Receipts from the interior continue to be small and correct statistics hard to obtain, but we think it may be taken for granted that the carry-over will probably be about 20 percent for Shanghai cotton. For other staples no definite figures can be given.

The chief interest from now on will be centered on the planting of the new crop, which is now in full progress. Returning to the near future, as the natural result of our reasoning, as quoted last week, we see no reason for materially lower prices considering the amount of cotton still in the hands of independent farmers. Disregarding for the time being the possibilities of intermediate fluctuations which may be involved in the question as to whether the supply will become available for spinning purposes when required, the present outlook seems to offer no foundation for the expectation of lower prices in the long run.

Yarn:—The market during the past week was keeping steady to firm. New business for export has been booked, some 10,000 bales in all of 20's, 16's, 14's and 12's at an advance of two to three taels compared with last week's level, and 1,000 bales direct business with the mills has been recorded. From present indications, we look for better markets in the future.

SPUNT AND COMPANY

Messrs. J. Spunt and Company write as follows in their cotton market report.

China Cotton:—While the volume of business transacted during the past week has not shown any improvement on that of the previous period, prices continued firm with a gradual upward tendency in indians accentuated both by a rise in prices in India and the prevailing lower rupee exchange here.

The existent depression in the yarn market acts as a strong deterrent to any demand for the raw material evolving from spinners who appear to have adopted the policy of making their current purchases on a hand-to-mouth basis and thus await more prosperous times for their yarn output. And while the pursuit of such policy at this stage of the situation is very commendable it would not be unwise to take advantage of any slight reaction that may take place and provide, as much as is financially convenient, for future requirements having in view the great uncertainty that is making itself universally felt at this time as to the dimensions of the new season cotton crop of the world with the expectant greater demand for the staple as the general economic conditions in Europe and elsewhere draw nearer and nearer to normality. Tone of the market, firm.

PONGEE SILK

The China Merchants' Pongee Association write as follows in their report on the pongee silk market of Chefoo.

Reporting on the silk market our Chefoo office writing on May 6 say in part as follows:

There has been a very little activity for silks of 30 and 50 yds. Ref. Nos. 3 and 5, which have resulted to small orders.

No demand for the other qualities.

Raw silk market very quiet with practically no stocks. Ruling quotation: Chefoo Tls. 660.00.

FILET LACE

Messrs. Industrial Export (China) Company write as follows in their report on the filet lace market:

The market for filet laces has been rather firm since our last report. There have been fairly large purchases made in 6 and 9 Holes ranging from 10 to 11 cts. and Rose and Leaf at 1.6½ to 1.7½ per Hole.

The market is fairly steady with a marked scarcity of 9 Hole.

The Irish market is still weak with no enquiries of importance.

JUTE FABRICS

Mr. J. A. Fredericks writes as follows in the circular on jute fabrics:

Heavy C's 2½ lbs. Greenstripe continue in demand in small parcels at Tls. 216.00 while Hessians have been done at Tls. 95 and are wanted at that. Stocks of both are low. Heavy C's 2¼ lbs. Bluestripe have been done at Tls. 170.00 but only in lots of a few bales at a time.

Calcutta prices have improved considerably since writing last owing to the fear of shortage in this year's crop on account of delay in planting due to the lateness of the rainy season. With the exception of Heavy C's 2¼ lbs. Greenstripe, prices ruling there now are about 10 percent higher for Hessians and Heavy 2¼ C's lbs. Bluestripe. Latest report says the market was very firm there.

Second Dry Year Damper Than First

(China Press Service)

New York, April 15.—Whether prohibition in New York State is less effective in its second year than in its first, or whether there has been a change in public sentiment towards those who endeavor to evade it, is probably a question that people will answer for themselves. The fact remains that convictions for intoxication in courts of special session in that state for 1921 nearly doubled those of the previous year, the figures being given as 10, 291 in 1921 against 5,287 in 1920.

On all counts, convictions in the state last year both in the lower and higher counts exceded those of the year before. According to the New York State Legislature they totalled 40,691 in 1920 as compared with 55,516 in 1921.

Minnesota Woman Seeks Senate Seat

(China Press Service)

Minneapolis, May 10.—Mrs. Peter Oleson has entered the race for the democratic nomination for United States Senator and is geting strong organisation backing.

Mrs. Oleson is pledged to stand for measures to protect women and children if elected to the Senate, and she declares that venerable body needs some feminine influence in it to make its function as the people of America want it to work.

Mrs. Olesen is making a vigorous campaign for the primaries in June and has the support of various women's organisations.

Census Of Blind Shows Decrease

(China Press Service)

Washington, April 20.—The number of blind persons in the United States decreased from 57,272 in 1910 to 52,617 in 1920, according to figures for the last census as announced by the Census Bureau. The decrease was attributed in part to advanced methods for treatment of blindness and also to education of the public in prevention of blindness. The affliction was shown to be more common among Negroes and Indians than other races.

Peking Petitioned To Forego Taxes

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, May 8.—Petitions have been received by the Peking Government to relieve the Chinese of northern provinces from the burden of the land tax because of the poor quality of their land or because of the distruction of their crops by drought.

People of three villages in Hsingkiang request that delay be granted in the payment of the land tax because their crops were destroyed by a big hail. In Heilungkiang the poor quality of the soil is brought forward as an excuse. The taxes are apparently in arrears since the 4th Year of the Republic.

FARMERS PUSH THROUGH BILL TO BOOST PRICES

Senate Measure Exempts Them From Anti-Trust Laws

(Chung Mei Service)

Washington, April 15.—Another victory for the "farm bloc" is registered in the passing of a bill by the United States Senate which authorises farmers' co-operative organisations and protects them from the operation of the anti-trust laws of the United States.

The bill which has already passed the House of Representatives and now goes to the President for signature, empowers farmers, ranchers, dairymen, planters, and nut and fruit growers to act together in associations, corporate or otherwise, in collectively processing, preparing for market, handling and marketing in interstate and foreign commerce, the products of their farms, dairies, groves and ranches.

As passed by the Senate the bill relieves the co-operative associations from the application of laws prohibiting trusts or unfair business practices, placing the authority to determine when such acts have been commited with the Secretary of Agriculture.

A substitute bill which was reported from the Senate Committee on Judiciary and stipulated that nothing in the bill "shall be deemed to authorise or create a monopoly" or to exempt any association organised under the provisions of the bill from "any proceedings under the Federal Trade Commission act" was overwhelmingly defeated.

Former Aero Dep't Chief Would Call Old Parliament

(Chung Mei Service)

Peking, May 9.—General Ting Ching, former director of aeronautics, has written to General Wu Pei-fu, according to reports from Chinese sources, to urge the assembling of the Old Parliament, advancing arguments why he favors this action rather than the election of a new parliament.

He argues that much money will be saved, in the first place, in as much as the representatives have already been elected, and it will also save a considerable amount of time. In addition to this, the Southern Government will have no excuse for making any protest, and the various cliques will be kept from causing any trouble.

Then, says General Ting, it will be up to the old President whether he will resign or not. In case he does not want to it will be easy matter to elect another President to take his place. Then it will be time to settle the questions of budget, reduction of soldiers, and other matters of state.
